Editorial

With this issue of Flying Saucer Digest we commemorate our 1st Anniversary. People in the publishing business say that if you publish a new magazine on any topic for one year your magazine should be out of the red to prove successful. Well, if we use this as a guide then we were very successful. Not only did we publish Flying Saucer Digest on a quarterly basis, but we also brought to the public a new kind of book, UFOMATION. The sale of this book was so overwhelming that we had to go to a second printing. A chapter in this book was UFO Terminology. This single chapter was so popular that we published a special booklet reprinted from UFOMATION. (see adv.) We are also publishing the U.A.P.A. Newsletter. If you are not a subscriber you are missing a very informative publication that is gaining in popularity among UFO inclined people throughout the world. So, all in all 1967 was a very good and successful year for F.S. Digest.

Coming in the next issue "the convention issue special" (extra large) the very famous and fascinating article "Are Flying Saucers Space Animals" written by John Bessor. This article is a must for all UFO enthusiasts and researchers.

The next issue of FLYING SAUCER DIGEST (Issue No. 6) will be out two weeks earlier, so we may have them ready for the 1968 Convention.

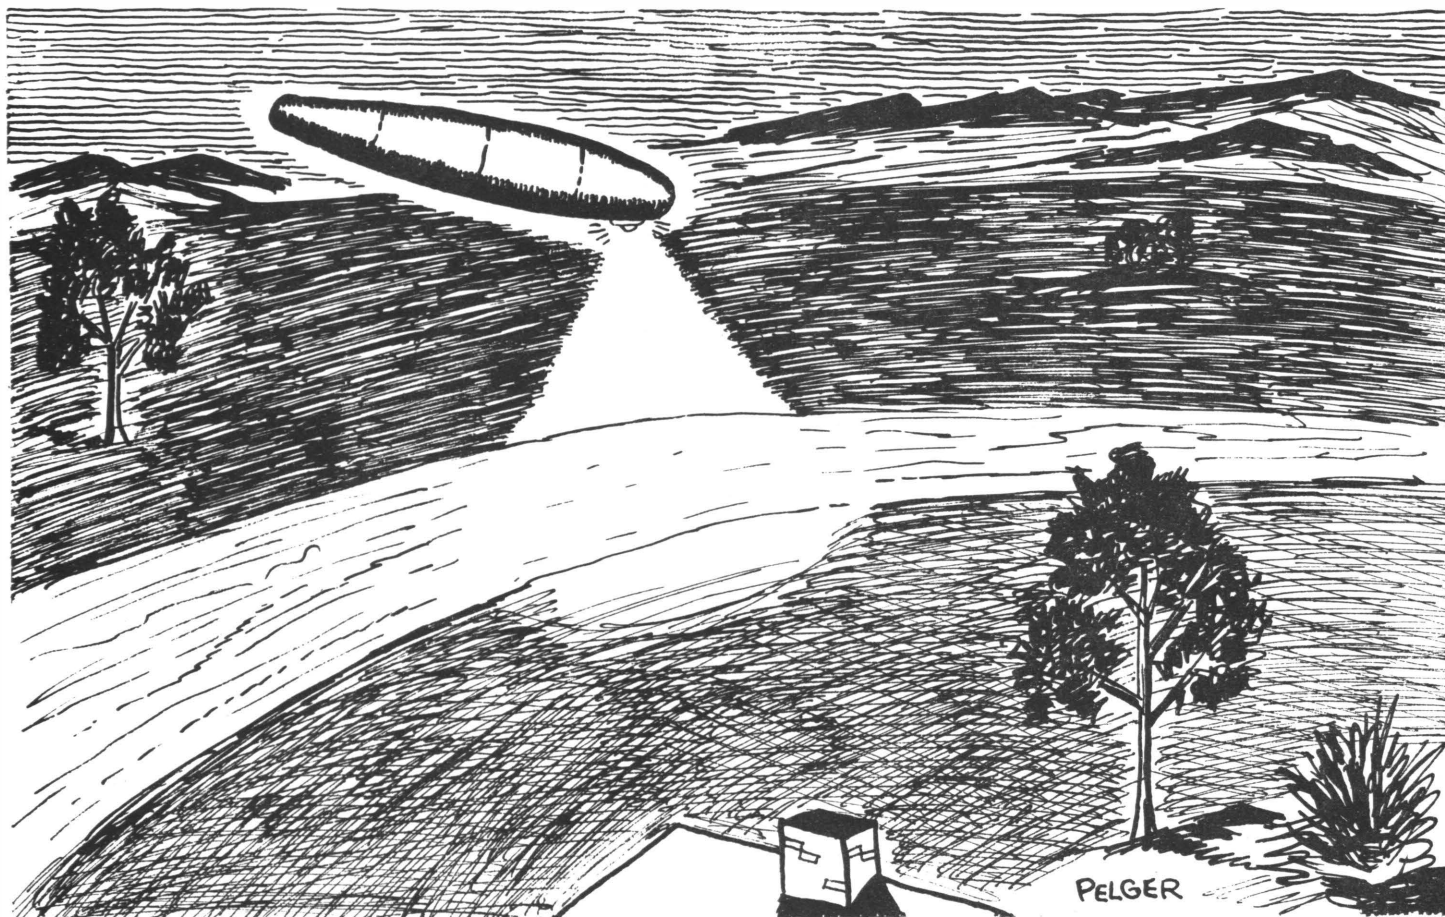

Speaking of the next issue, we will have a special offer to subscribers of F.S. DIGEST. A new book, that's right a new kind of flying saucer book. This book will be so completely different that everyone in Ufology will want a copy. So watch for a special invitation to our this remarkable book at a greatly reduced price to subscribers of F.S. DIGEST only, in our next issue.

Strange Object

On November 17, 1896, thousands of residents in Northern California had seen one of this country's earliest reported unidentified Flying objects. Five days later this strange elongated-shaped vessel, about 150 feet long with a giant light in the craft's belly lit the earth directly below.

Newspapers reported this strange sighting in headlines, there were many skeptics. Some called the sighting a hoax. A San Francisco paper "The Call" dated November 22, 1896 said "It is the prevalent opinion that someone has solved the mystery of flying in the air and has been putting his experience to a practical test."

Seventy-two years later we on earth still do not know the answer. What do you think readers? Lets here your opinion.

I Met A Spaceman

Born in Brooklyn, N. Y. on Feb. 17, 1922, Howard Menger, who later moved with his parents to the hills and fields of northern New Jersey, claims he made his first contact with a space being at the age of 10.

While out wandering alone one day in a wooded area near his home, he stumbled across a charming young woman with long golden hair who seemed to "radiate" and "glow" as she sat on a rock by a small brook. The woman told Menger that she was from the planet Venus and of the coming events that would take place on the Earth. She also informed him that the "space brothers" would be around to help us in our troubled world.

Howard Menger went on to making numerous contacts with the space people who he claimed were from other planets, and how they taught him great wisdoms of knowledge about the universe and the life in it.

Menger took several photographs of the space crafts which made landings near the wooded section of his home. The majority of the pictures, however, did not fair too well due to what Menger said was the "radiation field" surrounding the saucers. The saucer-like crafts, by the way, were of the "Adamski type scout ships".

After Menger's contacts became more frequent, he ventures to say that the space brothers invited him aboard their crafts and zoomed him off on voyages similar to George Adamski. At first, he was given a view of the Earth from space, then a journey around the Moon, and finally a landing and tour on the surface of the Moon, where he met people who actually live there. He also took trips to the various planets as well.

Later, Howard Menger went on to marry a beautiful woman from Venus, so he claims. He is, at the present, very active in the saucer movement.

Menger, as most of the other contactees, also wrote a book titled, "From Outer Space to You".

NOTE: Since the F.S. DIGEST policy states that we deal with all aspects into the UFO field, the "I Met A Spaceman" column will from time to time consist of the contactee cases. However, the claims of such contactees are not necessarily those of the U.A.P.A., the editorial staff, or the columnist. We merely aim to forward to you, the reader, as much available material in the UFO field as possible.

Analysis in Astronomy

The Universe.....Where did it come from? How did it begin? How big is it? Is there an end to it somewhere in space? These, and other interesting questions bring us to the point of discussing the possible theories of the formation of the Universe.

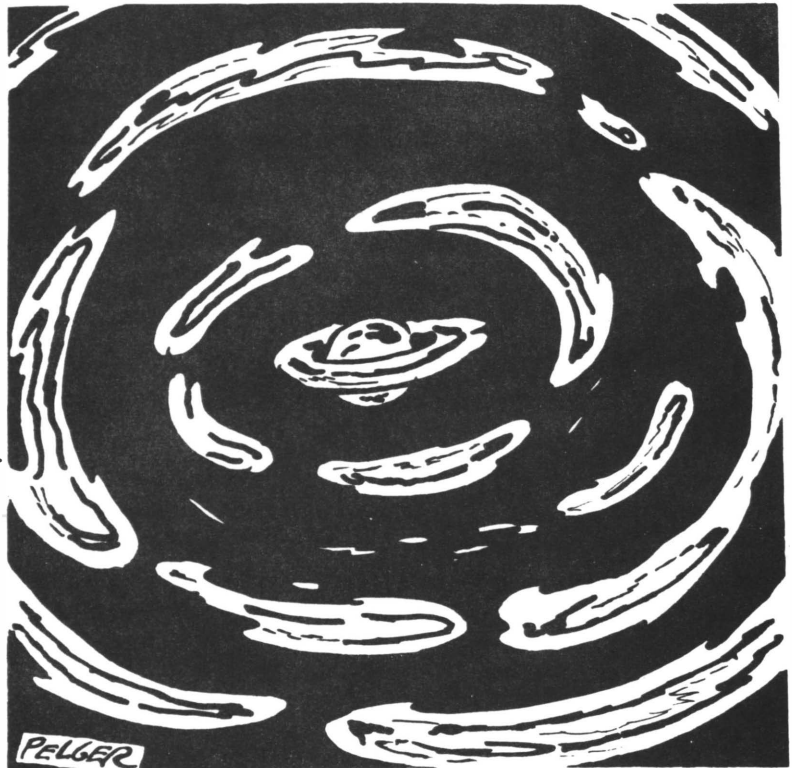

Two of the main theories of the beginning of the universe are the "Big Bang" theory and the "Steady State" theory.

The Big Bang Theory. About 10 billion years ago, there was a tremendous ball of matter billions of miles in diameter which was in the form of energy. Due to the intense heat within, the huge mass of matter increased and suddenly exploded into countless pieces which flew in all directions.

When the cooling off of the gases in each of these pieces will be attracted again into a dense ball. Then another explosion will occur and the process will renew itself.

The Steady State Theory. In this theory, it is believed that the universe never had a beginning and will have no end. The stars now in existence will some day burn out and new ones will take their places formed from newly combined matter. Gaseous matter is being accumulated in billions of tons from atoms of hydrogen. Hydrogen atoms are thrown out by stars and only appear in space, but they are not created.

How about Solar Systems and Planets? How did they come into existence?

There have been numerous theories proposed on these questions. About four good theories, however, have really stood out. Two of these theories which are considered to be the most logical are the Nebular Hypothesis and Dust Cloud theories.

The Nebular Hypothesis Theory. A French astronomer of the 18th century claimed that the sun was at one time a nebula (mass of hot gasses). It rotated at very high speeds and finally began to cool off. As the mass cooled down, it became smaller and began to spin faster and faster. Finally, a ball of gas broke off, and another followed in a continuous process. Each of these layers or balls of gas cooled down and formed what we now term as the "planets".

The Dust Cloud Theory. This theory, also called the "Protoplanet Theory", explains that the gases which formed the sun slowly contracted. They separated into different parts such as the "protostar" and the "protoplanets".

The Planetsimal Theory. When the sun was approaching another star, the gravitational attraction from the star pulled various parts away from the sun. These parts formed to become the "planets".

The Tidal Wave Theory. Similar to the Planetsimal Theory, when the sun neared a star, the force of attraction pulled away tides of matter from the sun which swung into space and formed the "planets".

Now that some of these theories have been explained, try to imagine the universe, if it had a beginning, before it was formed. Isn't it unbelievable to try to imagine "nothingness"?

Who Said That?

Science Digest, August, 1967

In the Astronomy section of this issue there is portrayed a photo (with enlarged insert) showing the far side of the moon. This photo shows a trough with raised rims, approximately 150 miles long and five miles wide.

The far side shows numerous craters, but this trough is "larger and appears much more recent than most of the similar features which have been observed on the front face." Lunar Orbiter IV is making a photo survey of 95% of the lunar surface; I wonder whether it is possible to obtain a series of photos of the 95% coverage of the surface?

Science Digest, September, 1967

Robert J. Low, project coordinator for the Air Force - financed study of UFO's have the potential "to get us much closer than we are now to the solution of the UFO enigma."

The university will make a complete analysis of the UFO pictures submitted to the research group. Negatives and other materials will be returned to the sender as soon as the analysis has been completed. The sender will retain complete ownership and publication rights to all pictures and, if he wishes, the senders identity will be held confidential.

Suggestions for photographers:

- 1.) Set your camera at infinity.
- 2.) Use fast film, like Tri-X
- 3.) For moving objects, use a shutter-speed of at least a one-hundreth of a second, and hold camera motionless during exposure.
- 4.) At night use the largest "F" stop you have.
- 5.) Take as many pictures of the object as you can.
- 6.) Include some ground in the picture, if possible.

(The above was copied verbatim from the article in Science Digest

-----suggest one additional suggestion for the photographer----- have the UFO or UFO's make a previous appointment at a specific time so photographer can comply with all previous suggestions.)

O.K. DARN YOU!

Science Digest, October, 1967

Two Soviet astrophysicists have developed a hypothesis after a study of quasars, estimating the Universe to be 70 billion years old, at least seven times as old as had been generally assumed.

Science Digest, November, 1967

News notes: Dr. William Markowitz, professor of physics of Marquette University, Milwaukee says, "The control of reported UFO's by extraterrestrial beings is contrary to the laws of physics."

Dr. Markowitz has received the "scientific evidence" gathered on UFO's, concluded that, "the data published do not justify the holding of investigations. He agreed that, "unidentified objects exist," but he contended that it was absurd to believe they, "were under extraterrestrial control."

Another example of a person indoctrinated in the belief that the old-longstanding hypothesis developed by scientists of long ago, still are to be adhered to, including the belief there can be no life anywhere else in the Universe, except on Earth. It may be there are a great many new laws and hypothesis to be experienced in the years to come to rationalize the now confusing reports of the multitudes observing the strange phenomena of UFO's.

Science Digest, December, 1967

News Notes: Dr. Harold Masursky, an expert on the moon, states most scientists are convinced the large craters on the moon were formed by collisions with other heavenly bodies.

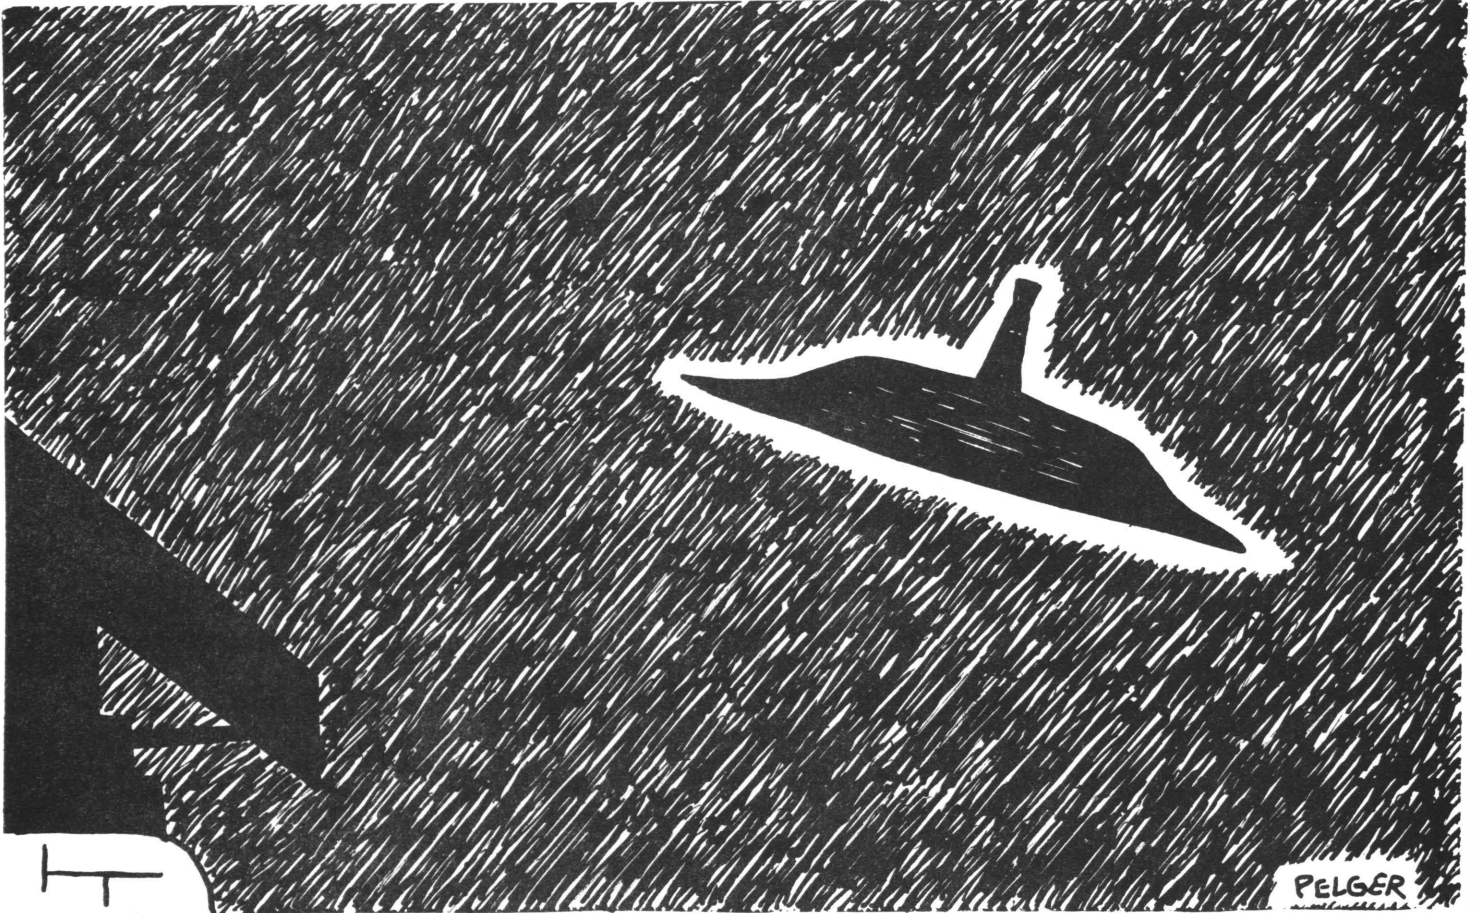

He thinks man should pay more attention to these potential hazards. "Man acts as if he were in complete control of his environment, but he is not." As a geologist, he believes the biggest danger is from asteroids.

Only 30 small astronomical bodies are monitored at the present time, but we could increase this by many orders of magnitude.

Many of these are coming very, very, very close to earth. Even the asteroid Icarus, could hit if its orbit were changed by only one degree.

UFO Retrospective

On May 11, 1950 in McMinnville, Township, Oregon, Mr. Paul Trent upon entering his farm after having a picnic noticed a unusual object traveling slowly in the sky over his farm.

He said, "The thing was shining like burnished silver, was noiseless, and gave off no smoke or vapor. After a few minutes it went off to the northwest and vanished over the skyline." Mr. Trent took two pictures of this strange object which to this very day is not explained.

When Mr. Trent received his prints back from the developer he noticed a sort of appendage on the top of the object. He then had the photograph enlarged. It proved to be something that had never before been seen in UFO photographs. Two years later in France, another UFO was photographed. This object was exactly the same as the famed Paul Trent Photo.

14 Carat Gold UFO

A gold, boomerang-shaped UFO was seen flying through the clear night sky of August, 1966, by Denise Tschann and Heather Stevenson, in the latter's front yard in Oregon, Ohio, a suburb of Toledo.

The object, seen through binoculars, had a domed-shaped construction on the underside and a bright red light on one end. The object made no sound as it slowly moved toward the east.

The object was in view for two minutes before disappearing in the east. Shortly afterwards a number of jets were seen heading in the direction it was last seen. They were traveling at a high rate of speed.

Denise, who saw the object through her binoculars, stated that it was unlike anything she had even seen before in her life. She is familiar with planes, helicopters and satellites.

Denise is a sensible young girl and a very reliable person. Her observation of an unknown object is verified by the presence of jet planes in the area almost immediately after the object is first seen. This item has been noticed a great deal in the past few months.

Research done by this author seems to indicate that this is the first documented case of a gold colored UFO. If this is true than the objects have been seen in practically every known color in the spectrum. In the future months perhaps we can even expect to see a mod-colored UFO.

Challenging The Hollow Earth Theory

There has been a great deal written lately on the possibility of the earth being hollow and a super-intelligent race living within. This idea seemed to originate from a misinterpretation of semantics attributed to the description of Admiral Byrd's Flight over the North Pole in which it was stated that Byrd went beyond the North Pole and evidence of an iceless domain.

Delving back in history we find innumerable accounts of explorers who have reached the North Pole by sled, by plane, by dirigible, and lastly by submarine. In 1926 Amundson and Ellsworth took off by plane from Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, which is 600 miles from the pole and dropped flags on the North Pole, then proceeded straight across to Teller, Alaska. They proved that between the North Pole and Alaska lies only the deep Polar Sea.

In the Hollow Earth theory it is noted that the earth has a hole at the North and South Pole about 1400 miles in diameter. If this were so, any investigation of a map would show that this would take in the Northern rim of Siberia, and Part of the Scandinavian Peninsula and part of Canada. Obviously these countries would know whether their northern borders dipped downward into a hole. Admiral Byrd's flight took off from Spitzbergen in 1926 in a Fokker plane.* He started at 12:50 A.M. and reached the Pole at 9:00 P.M., circled it several times, then returned to Spitzbergen at 4:30 A.M. or after about 15 hours of flying, or 1,400 miles. Since it is about 600 miles from Spitzbergen to the Pole, Byrd must have gone about 100 miles around or beyond the Pole before turning back because of low gas supply. History does not relate anything unusual about his discoveries.

Again in 1928 Wilkins flew from Pt. Barrow, Alaska over the North pole and, after 20 hours, reached Spitzbergen. He stated no new land areas were sighted.

In 1937 two non-stop flights from Moscow to the United States were made over the North Pole. The first commercial flights made over the Pole. Surely all of these flights would have noticed some peculiarity in the Earth at the Pole.

Again in 1937 the Russian Ship Sedov reached within 300 miles of the Pole and was frozen in the ice for months. They could not be frozen in a hole. The most recent demonstration of a normal North Pole was in

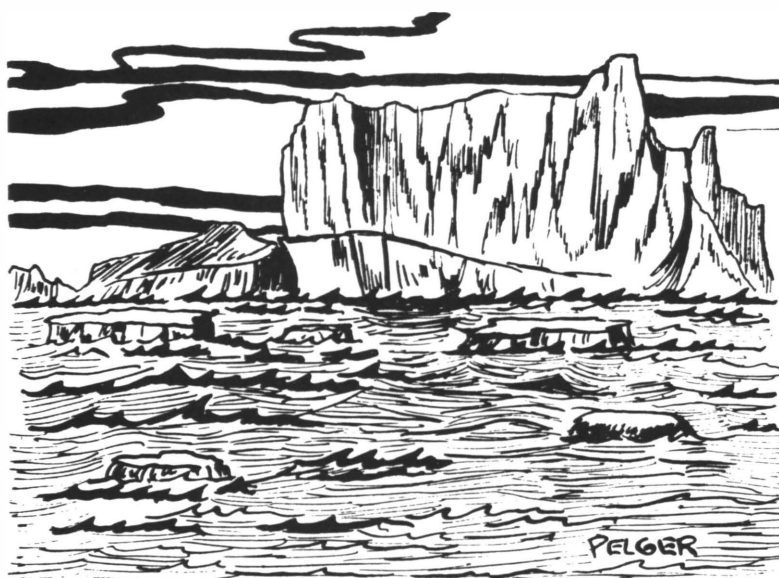

DO THE SAUCERS ORIGINATE FROM THE EARTHS INTERIOR?

1958 when the Nautilus sailed under the Pole making a sounding which showed about 1,500 ft. between the bottom of the Sea and the underside of the ice shelf. The Nautilus sailed from Spitzbergen and made a straight line north arriving at Point Barrow in Alaska.

Now let us look at some of the known physical facts which are beyond doubt. The claim of the Hollow Earth proponents is that a ship traveling thru the North Pole sails over an edge which is 400 miles thick or curved, and the trip is so gradual that you do not notice the change. Anyone can plainly see the stars at night and, if a ship descended downward, the sky would be gradually blanked out therefore all sextant readings become impossible to establish direction. Furthermore, where the oceans of the exterior met those of the interior, there would arise a terrific cavitation of forces.

A plane flying over the Pole at night would be able to see a huge light area emerge like dawn and the central sun, as is presumed exists inside the earth, would be seen as a stationary source. Since the inside of the earth is supposed to be a warm climate, these warm air currents would rise thru the opening and cause ice to melt at the rim. How can you justify the action of rain to replenish the rivers and lakes inside the earth even if we supposed centrifugal force of the earth's rotation were to keep them in their place? There would be no chance of evaporation, and rivers would pile up in one spot.

What happens to the gravitational force which is supposed to draw all things to the center of the earth? This force evidently does not exist beyond the 400 mile depth of the crust, so say the proponents, and how could a sun remain stationary or spin at the center violating all physical laws? How could seismic waves of the Alaskan Earthquake travel thru the earth and be recorded in Russia? At the midway point on the 400 mile crust a ship would see a sun behind and one ahead. Quite confusing, it would seem, yet no one has noted this duality.

Now the proponents maintain that the ice bergs at the North Pole are formed from the flow of fresh water from the interior rivers which end in the ocean and freeze when they reach the cold exterior. Any high school student knows that ice bergs are formed over eons of time by the constant compacting of snowfall which the Polar Winds precipitate over the Pole. Then when the weight of snow becomes enormous, the snow turns to a crystallized ice called Neve. When this ice shelf creeps toward the warm Atlantic currents, the underside is melted and huge chunks break off because of the weight above. These chunks drift into the oceans and are called ice bergs. The physical facts, I believe outweigh the fantastic.

One of the most important theories advanced by the Hollow Earth proponents is that the flying saucers seen in our atmosphere originate inside the earth and come out at the poles to see what the earthbeings are doing with atomic power that might jeopardize the planet.

After 39 years since Admiral Byrd flew beyond the Pole, it would seem a great stretch of anyone's intelligence to believe that a country or individuals could keep this secret. It is normal human nature to investigate further any discovery as earth-shaking as this regardless of national barriers. This fantastic tale originated only recently by authors of books for entertaining reading.

We have enough proof of extraterrestrial space ships and their origin to negate any reference to them being earth centered, even though many have been sighted going into or out of the Polar Seas. These space ships can navigate under water or in the air, and their need for earth exploration and demand for water makes this a natural consequence.

As a last rebuttal, the writer examined several books written by authors of the Hollow Earth and has concluded that their motives are suspect in drawing attention away from the truth that is being expounded by the forces of Light for the spiritual evolution of mankind. This includes the flying saucer phenomena which is, in part, a spiritual manifestation repeating the visitations given to mankind as recorded in Biblical times.

How Could They

I remember back in 1947 after the now famed Kenneth Arnold sighting, the explanation came in as "Misinterpretation of conventional aircrafts."

In 1948 while Capt. Thomas Mantell was in a daring pursuit of an unknown-explanation--"The Planet Venus."

In 1951, hundreds of witnesses including scientists saw a strange formation of lights. Not once but twice. At the same time they were tracked by radar. These unknown objects were also photographed by Carl Hart Jr. They're known as the Lubock Lights. Explanation--"High flying moths reflecting light from mercury vapor lamps."

Then some scientists stated that "all these things that people are seeing and calling Flying Saucers are nothing more than Optical Illusions."

A pilot chased an object over a two state area--Explanation--"Ball-oon."

There was a tremendous show over our Capitol in July of 1952 where radar tracked these unknowns and pilots at the same time saw them and tried to make contact. Explanation--"Temperature Inversions."

A school yard full of children with teachers standing by saw three unknown objects maneuver for over 10 minutes. Explanation--"Imagination."

A commercial airlines plane with crew and passengers saw for 5 minutes a strange aerial object. All at once this object came toward the aircraft. The pilot veered away avoiding collision. Explanation--"Meteor."

Many people one evening saw strange objects in the sky making fantastic 130 degree turns and dives. With these impossible turns was a beautiful show of color changes. Explanation--"Birds."

Then in 1965 over a seven state area thousands of people reported many UFO's. Explanation--"Stars."

One scientist even went so far as stating that what these poor misfortunate people were looking at was nothing more then "Moon Dust."

Two years ago hundreds of people saw a strange flying disk in Michigan. Explanation--"Swamp Gas."

Now with misinterpretation of conventional aircrafts, the planet Venus, high flying moths, optical illusions, balloons, temperature inversions, imagination, meteors, birds, stars, moon dust and swamp gas its no wonder why UFO'S cannot land. The pilots might be called something they are not.

HEY! THERE GO
THOSE "HIGH FLYING MOTHS" AGAIN.

Hairy Creek Monster

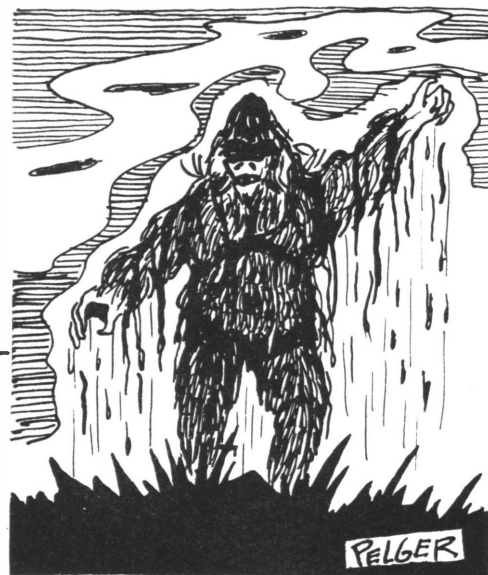

North of Fontana, California, two teen-age girls accidentally met with a "seven foot tall, brown haired, creature" covered with slime and moss.

It seems that the girls were driving near the Lytle Creek when the "monster" stood up out of the water beside their car.

They reported the incident to the San Bernardino County sheriff's Fontana station. The deputies said about 300 persons, armed with guns started to swarm the area every night in hot pursuit of the "creature" which is believed to roam at night.

The hunters failed to turn up the "hairy beast" and after a few nights, finally ended their search.

Northern California has been noted for the sightings of some kind of "hairy creature" which walks in a human upright stance. "Abominable Snowman" is the more common name given to these beasts.

Just recently, October 1967, two young men ran into a huge hairy creature in the wilderness area, northeast of Eureka, California and luckily were able to capture the creature on film. The photos can be seen in the February issue of Argosy magazine.
